The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

Next January, when the State Legislature convenes for its 1941 session the State Administration will, without doubt, demand the enactment of new taxes, or increases in the rates of existing taxes.

At first glance, that may seem a rash prediction, but actually it is almost a certainty.

Governor Olson, during the special sessions of the Legislature earlier this year, demanded $50,000,000 in new taxes. He was turned down, but resented the turn-down bitterly, as evidenced by his repeated statements since that the Legislature did not act in good faith in denying him new tax sources.

Anticipating a request for new revenues and new taxes at the start of the New Year, perhaps it would be well to look over the records for the past fiscal year—the last period on which accurate totals are available.

During the last fiscal year, the state treasury collected in taxes and turned into the State General Fund $173,467,130.

That was $6,843,725 more than the year previous.

Yet despite this considerable increase in income, California, today, is $30,975,882 worse off than it was twelve months ago.

The General Fund deficit has reached an all-time high of $82,110,558, and the debt is growing by leaps and bounds!

California farmers, who are among the state's heaviest taxpayers, have reason to study that record. For despite a heavy increase in state tax collections, the state deficit increased even more sharply.

Perhaps, you say, it is due to relief to the aged, or the needy, or an increase in elementary school costs, but such is not the case; these costs were less than in the previous year.

The increases, during the last twelve months, have been in what might be termed the normal functions of government. And this, despite the fact that California, with the nation at large, has faced the fact that it must pay heavy increases in federal taxes to defray the cost of the national defense program.

There is no reason for beating about the bush. The plain facts are that bureaucracy has been thriving in California at the same time that the individual citizen, whether a farmer or city worker, has been having a hard time to make ends meet. The plain facts are that where economy should reign, waste rules. The plain facts are that payrolls have been expanded in state service, with no regard to the ability of the taxpayer to pay for new governmental frills and increased governmental services.

It is high time that the spenders of state funds changed their tune.

The state collected nearly seven millions of dollars more last year than it collected the year before. Yet California winds up deeper in the red than ever before.

There is only one common-sense way to strike a balance between income and outgo, under the circumstances. And that is to cut expenses; to cut budgets. That may be old-fashioned, but certainly it is the only way out for taxpayers already burdened with exorbitant tax payments and debts.

California, like its citizens, just simply has to learn to live within its income. Most of us learned that lesson long ago; and we hope our state government learns it before January.

ADMISSION DAY PROGRAM AT SACRAMENTO

Native Sons, Daughters Active; Quadrille Wins Championship At Fair

With schools, state, county and municipal offices and principal places of business closed for the day, El Dorado County participated during the weekend and on Monday at Sacramento in the observance of the nineteenth anniversary of California's admission to the Union, on September 9th.

In keeping with the anniversary, the Native Sons and the Native Daughters were the sponsors of a weekend fete at Sacramento which was closed on Monday, the last day of this year's state fair, with the Pioneer Quadrille Club, of Placerville, winning in competition at the fair.

The quadrille, represented by a set, was in competition with a set entered by the Harmony Club, the Descendants of '49ers and the Covered Wagon Club.

El Dorado County was particularly interested this year in the Admission Day observance at Sacramento, since District Attorney Henry S. Lyon is Grand President of the Native Sons in taking a leading part in noting the state's birthday.

Members of the Native Daughters in El Dorado County rallied in support of their grand officer, Mrs. Nora Gray, grand inside sentinel, and their aide to the grand marshal of the day, Mrs. Nettie Leonard, and both the Native Daughters and the Native Sons from this county participated in the three-hour long Admission Day parade at the capital city.

Members of Marguerite Parlor No. 12, N. D. G. W., marched in the procession attired in "old-time costumes" and carrying parasols to complete their outfits, while members of the parade.

Spray Series Announced

Farm Bureau Deciduous Fruit Department Sets 4 Demonstration Meetings

A series of four spray demonstration meetings in the county next week was announced on Tuesday morning. The meetings have been arranged under the auspices of the Deciduous Fruit department of the county Farm Bureau, in co-operation with Farm Advisor Ivan W. Lilley.

Of particular interest to growers, says George H. Volz, the Deciduous Fruit department chairman, will be the examination and discussion of cull fruits, taken at different times during the season and placed in cold storage for use in the spray conference.

The demonstration meetings will include a discussion of the various reasons why these have become culls, and what we may do to control pests and save more of the fruit, Mr. Volz said, adding, "of course, we can't do much about hail."

The series of meetings will open Tuesday of the coming week with a meeting at ten o'clock in the morning at the John Davey ranch, at Fruit Ridge. The Tuesday afternoon meeting will be at 2 o'clock at the W. J. Clark ranch, at Missouri Flat. Wednesday's meetings will be at the Sperinde ranch at Cool at ten o'clock in the morning and in the afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Leo Akin ranch at Gold Hill.

All fruit growers and any others interested are welcome to attend any or all of the meetings, Mr. Volz said.

RESCUE FARM CENTER TO MEET FRIDAY NIGHT, SEPTEMBER 13

The regular September meeting of the Rescue Farm Center will be held Friday night, September 13, at the Tennessee school.

Chairman Fred Wessels reports that in the discussion program a representative of the Soil Conservation Service will discuss the water facilities program and the opportunities for the development of water sources in the area under the program.

Farm Advisor Lilley will speak on farm problems of the district and the motion picture for the month is an educational picture about pigs.

MRS. W. MARKS SUCCEUMBS

Private Services Held On Monday For Native Of County, Aged 83

Private funeral services were held Monday from Memory Chapel, Rev. Rex A. Barron officiating, for Mrs. Emma Anorah Sampson Chalder Marks, 83, a native of El Dorado County. Interment was at Union Cemetery.

Mrs. Marks died on Friday evening. She was the last of a family of eight children whose parents crossed the plains to El Dorado county as pioneers and settled on a ranch on Coloma road north of town, which was known in earlier times as the Sampson ranch and in later years as the Witmer ranch.

Deceased and her husband, John Chalder, operated the St. George Hotel, at Sacramento, in the late '70s and early '80s when that place was a leading tavern in the capital city.

Ill health forced Mr. Chalder's retirement from that work and the couple returned to this county. Several years following Mr. Chalder's death, the widow married Watson Marks, who was engaged in teaming in the lumbering industry in this county.

Following the death of Mr. Marks, the deceased had made her home from time to time with various of her children and for several years past had resided with a daughter, Mrs. Florence Rayburn, on Coloma Street.

Mrs. Marks is survived by three sons and two daughters, who are, Clarence Chalder, of Placerville; Mrs. Bert Warren, of Sacramento; Mrs. Florence Rayburn, of Placerville; Roy Marks, of Missouri Flat, and Worthy Marks, of Sacramento.

Six grandchildren and a number of nieces, grand-nieces and grand nephews also survive her.

ENGAGEMENT IS ANNOUNCED AT DINNER PARTY ON SATURDAY NIGHT

A dinner party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Emmerson on Saturday night was the occasion for the announcement of the engagement of Miss Florence E. Crosby and V. Donald Emmerson.

Miss Crosby is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Crosby and her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmerson. Both are graduates of the county high school and each has completed one year at Placer Junior College.

Among those who were present at the dinner were Miss Pat Jones, of Auburn, Eleanor Chalder, Bill Hoffman, Joe Ronzone, Mr. and Mrs. Emmerson and Mrs. Zella Luse.

The couple have not made any wedding plans since Mr. Emmerson is stationed at the San Diego Naval Training Station, being home at present on a ten-day furlough. Upon his return to duty he expects to be assigned to the aviation mechanics school at North Island, San Diego.

John A. Coates, arrested last week, is to have a hearing in Justice's Court of Placerville town-ship on Wednesday on charges of petty theft, according to Sheriff George M. Smith.

FAIR SETS NEW ATTENDANCE RECORDS

11-Day Exposition Ended Monday Night Was Viewed By Estimated 714,000

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—Plans to improve the horse racing program at the California state fair next year by increasing purses were announced by the fair's board of directors today as the show ended an 11-day run with record attendance marks.

Pleased at the total attendance—estimated at 714,000, probably the greatest in the country for a similar event—and at the part-mutuel handle—$559,776 for nine days of racing—the directors heaped praise on Secretary-Manager Kenneth Hammacker for taking the fair out of the "gas-light circuit" category.

Next year the fair will revert to its original 10-day show, running from August 29 to September 7. They also urged the state racing commission not to permit other tracks to have racing dates which might conflict, as the Del Mar meeting has overlapped the state fair racing days in recent years.

Not only was total attendance far in excess of the previous record of 637,682, and the mutuel handle a new record, but attendance at the horse show was nearly 5,000 above last year. The board of equalization, computing sales tax returns, indicated the fair crowds spent 25 per cent more money at restaurants and concessions than last year.

Secretary Hammacker credited the "name" bands of Phil Harris, Orrin Tucker, Horace Heidt, Skinnay Ennis, Kay Kyser with Bonnie Baker and Bob Hope with contributing largely to the new attendance records.

Georgetown Ties In Playoff

Foothill League Pennant Race To Be Decided In Final Game Sunday

Georgetown evened the count with Newcastle during the weekend in the "best two of three" series to decide the Foothill Baseball League championship, and the final game of the series will be played this coming Sunday at Georgetown.

Although they were nosed out, 9 to 8, in the first game, the Georgetown nine came back Sunday to take the second game, 17 to 13. Turning a baseball encounter into a track meet, Georgetown scored eleven runs in the first inning off two Newcastle pitchers to go into a lead which never was headed.

The highlight of the game occurred when Gregory, Newcastle third baseman, slammed a home run into the garden of a residence in back of the left field. Slepen, the Georgetown left fielder, lost the ball in the flowers and Gregory galloped home while the Miner outfielders were hunting the horse-head in the dahlias.

Bob Grant, with four singles in five times at bat, led the Miner sluggers at the plate, led the Miner nandez, on first, was outstanding for Newcastle.

The score: R H E
Georgetown 17 13 4
Newcastle 13 14 7

Batteries: Paschane, Martin and McCullough; J. Moreno, Keskeys, and F. Moreno.

CHECK ON FOODSTUFFS IMPORTANT DUTY OF HEALTH BUREAU

SACRAMENTO, (UP)—Few persons realize the unrelenting watch of the state department of public health to insure high quality of foodstuffs and other articles sold to the public.

Major ground for rejecting by bureau inspectors is unfitness for human consumption. During July, for example, the department quarantined the following products:

Food products, 672,000 pounds; 5,800 cases of assorted goods; 112,000 gallons of wine; 3,000 gallons of whiskey; 2,200 gallons of olive oil; 4,500 cases of assorted drugs.

During the same month, food and drug products totaling 161,500 pounds and 56,470 gallons of wine were released from quarantine. In addition, 15,700 pounds of food products, 11,300 gallons of wine, 143 gallons of olive oil, and 817 cases of assorted drugs were destroyed because of their unfitness for human consumption.

LIONS PUSH ATTENDANCE

100 Per Cent Goal For Tuesday; Roy Reigels Is Luncheon Speaker

Placerville Lions have been asked to bend their special efforts to insure a 100 per cent attendance at the club meeting Tuesday, September 17th, as a part of a nation-wide activity of the club honoring the club president and also the president of Lions International.

Arrangements for Placerville's participation in the occasion are in the care of Attendance Committee Chairman Loren Atwood, who in announcing the observance at Tuesday's luncheon of the club also called attention to a thirteen-week attendance contest, opening with the meeting for the coming week.

Atwood explained that the contest will make each Lion an individual "team" and that at the close of the contest the thirty members of the club having the best attendance records will be entitled to meet with the Folsom Club, at the expense of those who attend most poorly.

The club also had a challenge from the Folsom Club to a game of softball at Marcus P. Bennett, Jr., Memorial Park but it seemed that the challenge would likely go unanswered when it was pointed out that the lights for games at night at the park have been removed, and that anyway the softball playing field has been recently seeded to grass and probably will not be available.

Roy Reigels, former University of California football player and more recently a business man of Sacramento was the club's speaker for the day.

Reigels spoke on the general value of athletics in a community and expressed the hope that the Lions, as oldsters in the community, would encourage a continuing interest among the youngsters in athletics, because of its encouragement for physical and mental development and because of its character building influences.

The battle between the British and German big guns was described by the high command as the "first cross-channel artillery duel" of the war.

By UNITED PRESS
Royal Air Force bombers carried back to Berlin today, Great Britain's answer to Germany's incessant air bombardment of London, an answer spelled out in bombs which hit in and around the German capital.

The British answer was given in the early hours of morning as the crash of German high explosives echoed through the debris-littered streets of London for the third successive night.

Berlin was not the only German city visited by the long-distance air-planes of the RAF bomber command. (Continued on Page 4)

Love Shy

by Nelly Graf
(AUTHOR OF "GIRLS WITHOUT MEN")

Marianne Minear lives on the wrong side of the little town of Centerville. Embittered when her high-school sweetheart deserts her for a girl who is well-to-do and socially prominent, she becomes convinced that love is cruel, and money everything, and grimly vows to have money some day. She takes a job and studies advertising. Leonard Bailey is deeply interested in her, but he is poor, and she cannot forget that money is now more important to her than love. They both go to New York to take jobs with a Mr. Gleason, real-estate man. Marianne works hard, finally becoming Gleason's assistant. Then, she puts over a big deal that means a lot of money for her but, in doing so, she interferes with plans for a hospital for orphans for which Leonard is raising money. Her pride in her shrewdness dies when Leonard begins to avoid her. Though he loves her, he realizes that her greed for money has taken complete possession of her.

CHAPTER XV

MARIANNE was up early the next morning, and waited expectantly for Leonard to stop for her, as was his custom. But when the clock warned her she was going to be late, she went on alone. At the office, she found him already at his desk. And she didn't get a chance to talk to him all day. Once when she started into his office, he was dictating to Jill Jackson, his secretary. The next time, he was out, and Jill said she did not think he would be back until late, if at all.

Marianne was moving that evening to her new home, but she did not call for a taxi until after nine hoping Leonard would telephone. He didn't.

Making the apartment into a home, and her mother's arrival were welcome interludes during the next few days. Interludes made poignant with thoughts of Eve. If only Eve were with them. They had never heard a word from her.

LEONARD continued to avoid Marianne definitely and pointedly. It seemed impossible that two people could work in the same offices and see so little of each other.

Marianne resented the way this bothered her—made her restless and unhappy. She could have slapped Jill Jackson the morning she said, "What's the trouble with you and Len Bailey? You used to be such—er—friends and now—you're just poison ivy to him."

Jill was competent and efficient, but she had a flair for saying what she thought with no particular effort at diplomacy.

"Please, Miss Jackson," Marianne said frigidly, "an office is no place for personal discussions."

"Name's Jill." The other girl's smile was so disarming, that Marianne found her resentment ebbing. "We used to have 'personal discussions' before you went high hat over that Rayson Bland deal. But if that's the way you feel, okay!"

With the exception of Jill, Marianne hadn't made friends with any of the other girls in the office and now, with Leonard ignoring her, she found her evenings lonely. She told herself it was a good thing—that it gave her more time for study and work.

Boostered with this thought, she went her way, more determined than ever to make money. Time after time, her knowledge of interior decorating had proved a decisive factor in sales and rentals. If Leonard Bailey did not approve of her, Gleason did. More and more, he acquired the habit of talking things over with her. She needn't care about Leonard, she told herself.

But she did care. She knew it one evening when he and Jill left the office together. She couldn't help hearing snatches of Jill's words—"that show last night, but tonight... a new place dancing under the stars." Shreds of conversation, but enough.

Tom Robley, assistant sales manager, who was considered to be Jill's boy friend, heard also. With an angry mutter, he slammed his portfolio on his desk and left the office.

IT WAS a few days after this incident that Marianne was summoned to a meeting of the firm's board of directors. When she entered the big luxuriously furnished room, Gleason came toward her.

"We've just made a unanimous decision. You are now secretary of the firm at a salary of ten thousand a year."

"Ten thousand?" Marianne could not go on. Why, she had been with the firm only two years and it had been expected that Leonard Bailey would be named secretary at this meeting of the board.

"Bailey," Gleason went on. "Is to be made promotion manager. He's full of valuable ideas, but we want a hard bargainer as secretary. He wouldn't put over a good deal, even if it meant a fortune, if it interfered with some of his crazy ideas."

"I—I suppose so," Marianne answered. She was secretary of the firm! At a salary larger than that of most men. Why didn't she feel glad? Why didn't she feel a surge of exultant triumph? Not just that sharp dismay. The thought, "Leonard expected this job," mingled with Jill's gay, lilting words "dance under the stars."

Why, this was so much more important than—well—dancing under the stars. Or was it?

THE board members crowded about her with congratulations. Finally, she was alone with Gleason.

"I'm going to make Jill Jackson your secretary. We'll have to get a new girl for Bailey. Jill's smart. She'll be a help to you." Gleason pressed a buzzer, summoning Jill. "I'll tell her now."

"When Jill came in, she listened gravely to Gleason's news."

"I could use that raise," she said quietly. "But—well, I'd rather stay on with Len—Mr. Bailey—at the old salary."

Gleason frowned, and Marianne gasped.

"I think I know where my employees are most valuable," Gleason snapped, his face red. "If you—"

"Oh, let's not quarrel!" Jill smiled her most disarming smile. "I just stated my preference—the other is quite all right. But Len—er—needs a lot of moral support these days and—"

Her voice trailed off as her honest eyes looked full at Marianne with a sort of pitying scorn.

FAILURE OF "PURGE" PUTS NEW LIGHT ON PARTY REGISTRATIONS

By J. F. McLAUGHLIN

United Press Staff Correspondent
Results of the state primary election, in the opinion of many California editors, proved conclusively that "purges" are not popular with the voters.

And, it was argued, the display of independent voting puts an entirely different light upon state registration figures as to party affiliations.

California, according to the Anti-Trust Ledger, "delivered what may prove to be the coup de grace to purge attempts in the United States. President Roosevelt attempted to purge United States Senator Hiram Johnson, but Democratic voters joined with Republicans and Progressives to give Senator Johnson the greatest token of confidence in his entire career. Governor Olson attempted to purge members of the state senate and assembly who ventured to disagree with his views. The voters slapped Governor Olson down. Democracy is working."

"Purges simply do not work in this day and age," said the Salinas Morning Post, "and that goes for the president down to the 'lowly' governor. After all, the people of this state and other states are fully capable of thinking for themselves, it seems, and dislike being manhandled and cow-towed into submission."

"Not only did the president fail in his attempt to eliminate Senator Hiram Johnson," states the Berkeley Gazette, "but Governor Olson also discovered that the people resent being told for whom to vote. Almost without exception the state senators and assemblymen slated for oblivion by the governor were returned to office at the primary, or nominated by their own party."

Golden Rule Days are Here Again

By GARRY CLEVELAND MYERS, Ph.D.

IN CASE YOUR child is old enough to enter kindergarten or first grade, is he physically, socially and emotionally prepared?

Have you had your family doctor carefully look him over? If not, please do so at once. The ordeal ahead of him at school is not easy and you certainly do not want him to have any physical handicaps which can be removed or prevented. Has he been vaccinated against smallpox and immunized against diphtheria? Why neglect these matters when so much is at stake? Have his eyes, ears, nose, throat been examined? Your family physician will know if he needs a specialist and should be able to recommend a good one. And be sure a dentist has examined his teeth and taken care of them.

There Are Free Clinics

If you cannot afford to pay a doctor, go to a public health center in a city or county seat and ask for free service. Many parents who do not look after such matters, easily could afford the cost. If it is a choice between going without a pleasure ride in your car, buying a new hat, suit, coat, or furniture and having proper medical or dental care for your child or yourself, have the medical and dental care by all means.

Has your child been learning to get along happily with other children his own age, settling his own fights and quarrels? If not, do your best to let him learn to manage himself at play and enjoy fun with other children.

Can he get along without you for several hours at a stretch, even over a night or week-end? Now's the time to train him in these directions, if he is too much a mama's child. Nothing can make his early days at school harder than to be strangled by his mother's apron strings.

Fear of Teacher

Does he look hopefully forward to the first day at school? Some playmates may have taken delight in picturing his teacher as an ogre x x x Tradition—the tradition of freedom of speech and action, the right to a secret ballot—won at Tuesday's election."

Senator Johnson's convincing victory, notes the Orange Daily News, "may well indicate a political trend in this state. x x x It is not in the nature of things for Senator Johnson to accept political insults. In the past he has responded promptly to such challenges and may still be expected to do so. The primary proves that his influence with the voters of the state is still dominant. Few doubt that, if he chooses to do so, he can turn the state against Roosevelt in November."

Johnson, points out the San Bernardino Sun, "has no political organization, no patronage to dispense—only a splendid record of public service. The men and women who belonged to his progressive or-and arousing fears in him of school bullies. Discovering this, you should be able to reassure your child and induce other children to assist you in doing so. Some parents, alas! will be so foolish and cruel as to "warn" him of the teacher who "will make him mind."

That child who has learned at home to manage himself, look after himself, and to get along happily with other children his own age has a favorable preparation for entering school. And don't overlook the health of the older children. Perhaps they should be examined by your doctor or dentist before school begins.

You may receive a chart of desirable hours of sleep for the child at various ages by writing me at 235 E. 45th St., New York City, and enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. In like manner you may receive a chart showing how many words in the average child vocabulary at various age levels.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. What do you think of the mother who deliberately exposes her child three years old to measles, chicken pox, or whooping cough, so he will get over them early and be done with them, believing that the older the child when he gets such diseases the harder they go with him?

A. One should not think unkindly of such a mother; one should be sorry for her and her little children. There are such notions as hers abroad, but these notions are entirely wrong. The younger the child, the more likely he is to die from these children's diseases, or to be left with a crippled heart, infected ears or throat or other physical handicaps. The longer you can keep your child from contracting any of the children's diseases, the surer he is to keep alive and have sound health; the surer, indeed, he is to escape these diseases entirely. One more thing that mother seemed not to know, that a child may have any or all the children's diseases more than once.

organization when he was governor of California are largely gone. But the story of his career is a living thing in the hearts of Californians. They resented the efforts of even the president of the United States to bring an end to that great career."

Terming the senior California senator as "one of the outstanding statesmen of the nation," the Coalinga Record adds:

"During his 24 years as a member of the upper house at Washington, he had been steadfast in his guardianship of the ideals of American democracy. He has been one who has consistently striven to keep this nation out of foreign entanglements, making his present campaign on his effort to keep out of the present European conflagration. By and large the people of California have not always believed in all of his individual policies, but they realized the honesty and integrity of his purpose in his representation of his native state."

On the campaign for state offices, the Marysville Appeal declares "the failure of the purge is a severe blow at the prestige of Governor Olson. That is particularly true as his effort was to prevent the nomination of these ten legislators by his own party. In a general election, with votes of both parties counting, not one of the economy bloc would have been beaten. After this defeat Olson no longer can contend that his opponents in the legislature are trying to defeat the will of the people in opposing the 'mandate' that he holds."

Admission Day Is Observed

Members of Placerville Parlor of Native Sons took part in the procession in white hats, white shirts, white trousers and white shoes.

The parlor's committee on observance also arranged for the Concord stage coach to be taken to Sacramento and it was used in the parade. In addition, Placerville Parlor bore the expense of obtaining the Preston School of Industry band, to head their division in the Admission Day parade.

The weekend doings opened Saturday afternoon when officers of the Grand Parlor of Native Sons met at the capital city to complete final details for the weekend program.

On Sunday morning, the pioneer memorial grove of trees was planted at the state fair grounds in exercises under the auspices of the Native Sons and Native Daughters. The grove includes fifty-eight trees, one for each county, with a plaque designating each tree.

Monday the Admission Day observance was ushered in with the huge parade participated in by uniformed bodies of the Native Sons and the Native Daughters from all sections of the state.

In the afternoon, the two orders took special prominence in the doings at the state fair grounds and in the afternoon Mr. Lyon, as Grand President of the Native Sons, spoke over the radio in observance of the day, his subject being "Admission Day and the Native Sons."

WILLKIE OPPOSED TO SIXTY-DAY DELAY IN CONSCRIPTION

RUSHVILLE, Ind., (UP)—Republican presidential nominee Wendell L. Willkie today called for the elimination of the Fish amendment which would delay military conscription for 60 days pending a new voluntary enlistment campaign to build up the U. S. Army.

The amendment, sponsored by Rep. Hamilton Fish, R., N. Y., was written into the conscription bill through a heavy Republican vote in the house.

"I hope that as a result of the conference between house and senate conferees on the selective service bill that the Fish amendment is eliminated," Willkie said.

Willkie hailed the Maine election results in which a Republican senator, governor and three G. O. P. congressmen were elected.

SALMON is the Fish that Everybody Knows—and Enjoys says Dorothy Greig

If there was such a thing as a national fish (maybe there is!), it would undoubtedly be the salmon. For salmon is a fish we all like and all eat in some form or other. The salmon is victim of its own systematic habits. As a tiny Clam Chowder Sauce is delicious over Baked Salmon Loaf.

Clam Chowder Sauce is delicious over Baked Salmon Loaf. It swims downstream and out to sea. Months later, grown big and fine and husky, upstream it swims again. We know that regardless of rushing current, distance and obstacles, it will do exactly that, and are waiting to catch it. The moral would seem to be—at least for salmon—"stay all at sea". At any rate, canned or fresh, salmon is good eating. Firm, meaty, it is the foundation of many a substantial and nutritious dish.

Baked Salmon Loaf
With Clam Chowder Sauce
1 can (1 pound) salmon, drained
1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs, or 3/4 cups dry fine bread crumbs
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 can condensed tomato soup
2 eggs
Drain the salmon then pick out the bones and dark skin. Mix the salmon well and combine with the buttered bread crumbs, tomato soup and eggs, slightly beaten. Mix thoroughly. Put into a buttered loaf pan or mold and bake for 45-60 minutes in a moderate oven—350°. Serves 6.
Clam Chowder Sauce:
1 can condensed clam chowder
1/2 cup milk or cream
Add the milk to the clam chowder. Heat quickly and serve as a sauce with the salmon loaf.

Egg and Salmon Pie with Cheese Crust
1 can condensed clam chowder
1/4 cup milk
1 can (1 pound) salmon
2 hard cooked eggs
Stir the milk into the clam chowder. Slice the eggs and arrange the slices in the bottom of a buttered casserole. Pour one-half of the clam chowder (which has been mixed with the milk) over the sliced eggs. Then arrange the layer of flaked salmon (from which the bones and dark skin have been removed) in the casserole. Pour the remaining clam chowder over the salmon. Cover with the cheese crust.

Cheese Crust:
1 1/4 cups sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup shortening
3-4 tablespoons cold water
Sift flour, measure, add salt and sift again. Cut in the shortening. Add water gradually and mix with a fork, adding only enough water to hold the mixture together. Chill thoroughly in the refrigerator. Roll out on a slightly floured board, then sprinkle with the 1/4 cup grated cheese. Fold over 3 times and roll out again. Put cheese crust on Egg and Salmon Pie and bake in a hot oven (450°) for 25-35 minutes.

ROOSEVELT RADIO TALK STIRS OBJECTION IN REPUBLICAN RANKS

HYDE PARK, N. Y., (UP)—President Roosevelt began work today on a major address which may establish a precedent affecting the question of free radio time for himself and Wendell L. Willkie during the campaign.

Roosevelt speaks from 9:30 to 10 p. m. (EST) Wednesday in Washington before the convention of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, (AFL).

Ignoring Republican protests that the President is receiving free radio time for addresses which are actually campaign speeches, the White House would give no indication whether Mr. Roosevelt's speech would be political or non-political. As a consequence, the networks which will transmit the address to the nation, will not be obligated to make any prior commitment to give Willkie the same amount of free radio time.

NETWORK OF FLYING FIELDS TO "RING" NATION IS BEING CONSIDERED BY WPA AS HELP IN DEFENSE PROGRAM

By OLIVER H. KNIGHT
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (UP)—The Works Project Administration is considering plans for a network of flying fields to "ring" the United States.

The relief agency is pledged to give priority to defense projects and a ring of airports in seaboard and border states is being studied, it was understood.

From July 1 to Aug. 24, 72 WPA airport projects were certified by the army and navy as having defense value. Of these, 53 are in seaboard states or states on the Canadian and Mexican borders.

In line with the WPA program to speed the preparedness drive by expediting defense projects, President Roosevelt approved 36 airport projects in the same period. Thirty-one of these likewise are in more exposed States.

Five of the 36 were included in the 72 certified by the army and navy. Although the majority are new airports, some comprise work on established air fields.

Thirty three additional airport projects, costing a total of $18,054,537, have been approved by Roosevelt for construction by the army and navy with funds transferred to them from the relief agency.

A plan to construct airports at strategic locations where planes could be based to repel any threatened invasion of the United States was seen in the list of 36 projects approved by the President.

They include three in Alabama, two in California, two in Connecticut, seven in Florida, four in Maine, three in Mississippi, two in Washington, one near New York City, one each in Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Maryland, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Wyoming, and Massachusetts.

In Alabama, work was approved on Maxwell Field and airports at Gadsden and Birmingham; at Riverside and Sunnyvale, Cal.; Bridgeport and New Haven, Conn.; St. Augustine, St. Petersburg, Valparaiso, Tampa, Lake City and Orlando, Fla.; Americus, Ga.; South Bend, Ind.; Wichita, Kan.; Bangor, Portland, Brunswick and Presque Isle, Me.; Botts, Mr.; Chicopee Falls, Mass.; Vicksburg, Meridian, and Newburgh, Miss.; North Beach, near New York; Charlotte, N. C.; Connelville, Pa.; Warwick, R. I.; Memphis, Tenn.; San Antonio, Tex.; Ogden, Ut.; Fort Lewis and Seattle, Wash.; and Sheridan, Wyo.

Mrs. Newton Judson, formerly a resident in the Ringgold and Gold Hill districts, and now of Oakland, is here visiting relatives and friends.

NEW CHARLIE CHAN STORY ON EMPIRE SCREEN TUESDAY ONLY

Never fooled in "reel" life, the great Chan was hoaxed in real life, it has been learned.

Sidney Toler, famous Chinese detective in "Charlie Chan's Murder Cruise," the 20th Century-Fox film at the Empire Theatre Tuesday, made this known when he revealed that the "priceless jade ring" he has been wearing for years is only a bit of agate.

The ring was bought by Toler's grandfather nearly 100 years ago. Family tradition has it that he paid a fancy price for it.

Recently Toler visited the exhibition of fancy and rare jade which had been at the San Francisco Fair and was temporarily on display in Hollywood. Proudly he displayed his ring to the expert there.

"It's a beautiful piece of agate," commented the latter, "but primarily I'm interested in jade."

Featured with Toler in "Charlie Chan's Murder Cruise" are Marjorie Weaver, Lionel Atwill, Sen Yung, Robert Lowery and others. Eugene Forde directed the picture, while John Stone was the associate producer.

WENDELL WILLKIE MAN OF ACTION

Republican Candidate for President, Like Thomas Jefferson, Has Wide Interests.

In the two and one-half months since his unprecedented and spectacular nomination for the Presidency, by the Republican National Convention, Wendell Willkie has demonstrated to the country his dynamic personality and driving energy as well as his quick and clear mind.

Few men have ever been nominated for the Presidency who have as wide and universal an interest in many fields of endeavor as Wendell Willkie. In that respect he has been compared to Thomas Jefferson who was as well versed in architecture as he was in the law—knew as much about farming as he did about political philosophy.

Born 48 years ago in the small town of Elwood, Indiana, Wendell Willkie was educated for the law. But before he received his degree in that profession, he taught history in the high school at Coffeyville, Kansas; drove a bakery wagon; worked as a baker for a tent hotel in Aberdeen, South Dakota, as a farm hand in harvesting wheat in Oklahoma and as a laborer in California. He has labored in steel mills and sugar fields.

Once embarked on the practice of law, Wendell Willkie defended labor unions with his father; enlisted in the army the day this country declared war on Germany in 1917; became a lawyer for a rubber company; and finally went to New York, first as counsel for Commonwealth and Southern Corporation and then, when the sick company needed resuscitation, as its president. Even critical New Dealers always have paid tribute to Willkie's candor, honesty and ability.

Nurtured in a home filled with books, Wendell Willkie throughout his life has been a constant reader of books—all kinds of books. He reads rapidly and, with a photographic-like mind, retains what he has read. He demonstrated his rich background of information on the "Information Please" programs on the air and in motion pictures. He is a qualified authority on English

Constitutional history and writes much better than many professional writers. Had he not been a great lawyer, he would have been an outstanding newspaperman.

Though Willkie has sat among the great and learned, he has never lost his touch with his Indiana origin. Though he likes books, he likes people more. He is as much at home in conversation with a truck driver or farm laborer as he is with an industrial tycoon or college President. Typical of the man is the fact that his faith in American agriculture is so great that he placed the savings from his salary in Indiana farm land. Operating these farms on a 50-50 basis with tenants, Willkie now knows as much about farming as he does about law.

Indeed, like the Roman of old, Willkie might say "nothing human is foreign to me." But that thought would never occur to Willkie because he believes that when a man commences to compare himself to a Cicero or Napoleon, people had better look out for him.

London Has 4 Air Alarms

mand. Stettin, big German port on the Baltic Sea, was raided. So was Wesermünde, opposite Bremerhaven at the mouth of the Weser river, and other unspecified localities in northern and western Germany.

The British today counted 592 dead and 2,740 seriously wounded in the first two days of the crushing German attacks on London. No figures were yet available on the toll of last night's attack. Saturday night, 306 were killed and 1,340 seriously wounded. Sunday night's figure was 286 killed and 1,400 wounded.

Four waves of British bombers attacked Berlin. The first and third wave appeared to penetrate the city deeply. The second and fourth waves bomber in the suburbs. The crash of the anti-aircraft batteries in Berlin broke out at 1.10 a. m. Not until 35 minutes later did the air raid warning sirens wail. An all clear signal followed in 36 minutes.

A red glow burned in the Berlin sky after the British raid. There was no official indication as to the cause of the fire. It was admitted, however, that British bombs fell in the northern suburb of Rosenthal.

Compared to the vast area of metropolitan London only small sections had been damaged. Correspondents were able to drive for blocks close to heavily bombed sections, past street after street where not even windows had been broken by explosive concussions.

The bombings, however, had affected London's life deeply. Some workers now are going to work at 6 a. m. instead of 8 a. m. to get in more bomb-free hours at their desks and work benches. Consideration was being given to closing all London theaters and movies for duration of the mass attacks. Many had already closed voluntarily.

The score of yesterday's air battles was given in London as 52 German planes downed, 13 British planes and 7 pilots lost. Berlin gave it as 44 British planes lost and 21 German aircraft missing.

On other fronts the Italians and the British traded air raids in the near east. The Italians raided Jaffa in Palestine, Port Sudan and the railroad between Alexandria and Marsa Matruh. The British attacked Massawa, Asmara, Dessie and points in Cyrenaica.

Justice of the Peace Charles A. Rasmussen and Mrs. Charles Hines were among those in town Saturday morning from Lotus.
